ReadyRefresh Beverage Program Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Is it Nestle Waters or ReadyRefresh?

ReadyRefresh by Nestle is a Division of Nestle Waters North America. The ReadyRefresh name is designed to convey what we do, deliver the most popular water brands directly to your office/home when you'd like.

What is the difference between Spring and Drinking Water?

Spring Water comes from an underground formation and must naturally flow to the earth's surface. It is collected at the surface or, like some Nestlé Waters brands, through a borehole that allows access to the water underground. When withdrawn for bottling, spring water needs to maintain the original and natural character that defines what it means to be spring water. The source is carefully monitored for consistency, quality, and safety.

Purified Water (Drinking) has been treated by specific processes to remove impurities. Both the source of the water to be purified (e.g., a well or municipal water source) and the type of purification procedure can vary. Distillation, deionization, reverse osmosis, and filtering are the standard purification treatments that meet FDA standards.

What are the Brands of Water that ReadyRefresh carries?

Nestle Pure Life (National Drinking Water) is available everywhere. Our Regional Spring Waters are more geographically located (see map).
